

Kommission für Alte Geschichte und Epigraphik des Deutschen Archäologischen InstitutsGRADUATE STUDENT SCHOLARSHIP

The financial support of the Gerda Henkel Foundation and the Elise-and-Annemarie-Jacobi-Foundation, in accordance with the will of Mrs. Annemarie Jacobi, makes it possible for the Commission to support graduate students "of outstanding ability and limited financial means" from all countries of the world who are currently preparing, completing or publishing dissertations in the field of Ancient History and closely associated fields. Research projects corresponding to the German concept of "Dissertation" will be taken into consideration (PhD, Thèse Nouveau Régime etc.).

The Commission hereby advertises scholarships for German and foreign PhD students to enable research stays at its library, which is excellently equipped for Ancient History. The planned stay should be of a duration of about two or three months. In addition to a work-place in the library, candidates will receive free accommodation in a fully furnished apartment on site, refund for their travel costs up to a maximum of EUR 350 (Europe) or EUR 900 (overseas), and a subsidy of EUR 600 per month for their living costs. The successful applicants have to be in residence at the Commission during their scholarship.

Applications in German, English, French, Spanish or Italian are to be accompanied by the following documents:

1. A detailed description of the dissertation project (max. 5 pages) with details about the status of the work
2. A working schedule for the stay in Munich
3. The proposed duration and dates (with possible alternatives, perhaps even during the following period) for the stay in Munich,
4. A curriculum vitae
5. Copies of existing academic qualifications
6. Letters of reference, one from the dissertation supervisor and one from another academic teacher

Applications can be addressed four times a year (until 1 January, 1 April, 1 July and 1 October) to the director of the Commission. They should be submitted at least six months before the planned beginning of the scholarship. Please send them electronically (as attachment or e.g. WeTransfer) as one data file to ursula.vedder@dainst.de or info.aek@dainst.de. We kindly ask referees to send their letters of reference (1 – 2 pages) separately to the same addresses.

Kommission für Alte Geschichte und Epigraphik des Deutschen Archäologischen Instituts

General Information

The Commission for Ancient History and Epigraphy of the German Archaeological Institute conducts and promotes research in the field of Ancient History, especially in Greek and Latin epigraphy, numismatics, papyrology, and historical topography. It publishes the journal Chiron and the monograph series Vestigia.

During their stay in Munich, scholarship holders will have contact especially with the five following members of the Commission, at present:

Christof Schuler (First Director):	Greek epigraphy and historical topography; the history of Asia Minor; ancient urbanism
Rudolf Haensch (Second Director):	Latin epigraphy and papyrology; the Roman Empire; history of religion in the light of epigraphy
Sophia Bönisch-Meyer:	Greek epigraphy and history of the Roman Empire; Asia Minor
Isabelle Mossong:	Latin epigraphy; the history of the Iberian peninsula in antiquity
Johannes Nollé:	Greek epigraphy and numismatics; the history of Asia Minor

The commission is located at 73b Amalienstrasse, opposite the Ludwig-Maximilians University. Its library at present holds about 43,000 books and currently subscribes to 170 journals. Its field of interest is the whole of Ancient History, with an emphasis on Latin and Greek epigraphy, papyrology, and numismatics. The library catalogue is accessible through the internet:

<https://sdvoz2.bib-bvb.de/InfoGuideClient.sdvvis/start.do?Login=wosdv&selectedViewBranchlib=12>.

The library is used not only by local researchers of the nearby university, but also by foreign researchers from all over the world. In addition, the libraries of the historical and archaeological institutes and the Bavarian state library can be reached within minutes on foot. Guest lectures and colloquia take place in the Commission regularly. The institute is in the heart of Munich — 15 minutes by foot to Marienplatz — and can be easily reached by public transport.
