

POWER AND THE CHTHULUCENE

HUMANIMAL DISCUSSIONS AT THE INTERSECTIONS OF
GENDER, SEXUALITY, ABILITY, AND RACE

April 6th and 7th 2017
Museum Gustavianum, Uppsala

Image: Courtesy of BFI Stills

Speakers:

Wendy Woodward	University of the Western Cape, South Africa
Erica Cudworth	University of East London, England
Andrea Pettitt	Uppsala University, Sweden
Claire Jean Kim	University of California, Irvine, US
Pär Segerdahl	Uppsala University, Sweden
Eliza Steinbock	Leiden University, The Netherlands
Ann-Sofie Lönngren	Uppsala University, Sweden
Cleo Woelfle-Erskine	University of California, Santa Cruz, US
Jacob Bull	Uppsala University, Sweden
Hyaesin Yoon	Central European University, Hungary

Donna Haraway's recent work proposes the chthulucene as a way of thinking about our current epoch as 'ongoing multispecies stories and practices of becoming-with in times that remain at stake, in precarious times in which the world is not yet finished' (2016:11).

In the spirit of this theoretical and political move, this symposium presents theoretical and/or empirically grounded papers that examine how human-animal studies might continue to collaborate with, engage, and inform critical research on issues of race, gender, ability and sexuality.

For more information and to register:
www.gender.uu.se/powerandthechthulucene

This symposium is organized as part of the Vetenskapsrådet funded research project Becoming human: animals and gender theory in a more than human world at the Centre for Gender Research, Uppsala University.

Vetenskapsrådet