- Space and Representation in the late antique Metropolis

Study during the summer and meet international lecturers and fellow students in the cosmopolitan city of Istanbul!

Constantinople - Space and Representation in the late antique Metropolis is an intensive two week Summer School organized by the Section for Classical Archaeology, Aarhus University in collaboration with the Swedish Research Institutes in Istanbul (SRII) and Rome. It is held at the SRII and can therefore take advantage of its setting in Istanbul to explore the city of Constantinople and give the students a unique firsthand experience of the late antique monuments. The Summer School will also present new and exciting discoveries from the ongoing excavations in the city and its vicinity.

Teaching takes place at the SRII with daily excursions to famous sites and new excavations in the heart of modern day Istanbul.
